HISTORICAL SKETCH

OF THE

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL, ALBANY, N. Y.,

COVERING A PERIOD OF FORTY YEARS.

THE first Normal School was established at Rheims in 1681. It was the Institute of the Brothers of the Christian Schools, and was founded by De la Salle. The same order have an Academy on State street, within two hundred feet of the State Normal School. In 1697, August Hermann Francke, at Halle, founded a teachers' class, using his orphan school for practice. The normal course of instruction extended through two years. Heck, his pupil, established a Normal School in Berlin in 1748. It was under the patronage of Frederick the Great, and through its influence grew up the great Prussian school system. From Prussia the Normal school idea has covered the civilized earth; one of the graduates of our own school, a Japanese, is teaching in a normal school in Tokio.

Normal schools existed in many European countries before they reached the English-speaking peoples. In Massachusetts they were founded in 1839; in England in 1842; our school commenced 1844, Dec. 18, 10½ A.M.

That Normal schools were established in Massachusetts was due to the efforts of Rev. Charles Brooks. While on a voyage to Europe he made the acquaintance of Dr. Julius, a Prussian, who had been sent by his government to inquire into the prison systems of the United States. During the long voyage Dr. Julius explained the normal system to Mr. Brooks, who became greatly interested, and who made thorough investigation of the subject in Europe. Returning home, he devoted three years to exciting an interest in the matter among the leading men of Massachusetts. Daniel Webster and John Quincy Adams became advocates of the new idea; and, best of all, Horace Mann took up the cause with that enthusiasm which never recognized the possibility of failure; the legislature was induced to establish a State Board of Education, with Horace Mann as its secretary, and to pass a law for establishing two Normal schools—one for males, the other for females. The seed was planted, the growth was only a question of brief time.

NEW YORK.

As early as 1795, Governor George Clinton, in his address to the legislature, recommended the establishment of common schools throughout the State; a law was promptly passed, appropriating $10,000 per year for five years for that purpose; in the schools should be taught the common English branches only. This was the beginning of the common schools of this State. In 1801, lotteries were authorized by law, whereby the sum of $87,500 was raised for the same purpose. This law was due to the efforts of Jedediah Peck, member from Otsego County. He was born in Connecticut, and desired to create in this State a common school fund in imitation of that of his native State. In 1804 and 1805, Gov. Morgan Lewis urged the establishment of common schools. In 1805, De Witt Clinton, mayor of New York City, procured the passage of an act establishing a free school in that city. He was one of the incorporators. In 1810 and in 1811, Governor Tompkins called the attention of the legislature to the subject; and in the latter year an act was passed creating a commission of five, with Jedediah Peck as chairman, to report a system for the establishment and organization of common schools. The chairman wrote an eloquent report, which was accompanied by the draft of a bill which, almost without change, was promptly passed by the legislature, and remained the common school law of the State until 1840. Under the provisions of this law, Gideon Hawley, of Albany, a young lawyer of great capacity, great industry, great modesty and high literary attainments, was appointed the first State Superintendent of Common Schools. Upon him devolved the task of giving life to the system created by law. For eight years he planned and executed. He divided the State into school districts; he divided the funds among the towns; he formulated the system; he was the father of common schools in this State. In 1821, for political reasons solely, he was removed, and the Secretary of State became Superintendent of Schools. In 1818, Mr. Hawley had recommended the adoption of the Lancasterian system, which had been advocated by De Witt Clinton. For more than twenty years this method was widely adopted, especially in the cities. The building in this city now used by the Medical College, was erected for and long used for a Lancasterian school.

The normal idea that teachers should be instructed in the art of teaching, that they should be taught not only how to acquire knowledge, but how to impart it, existed in New York long before Normal schools reached this continent.

New York owes her material supremacy to De Witt Clinton, who turned into her lap the wealth of the West. He, too, well understood the value of common schools, the people's college, and he saw the importance of educating the teachers of those schools. To-day his son, compiler of the Consolidated Code of Public Instruction, and Vice-Chancellor of the University, in virtue of the latter position, stands in near relation to this Normal school. In 1825, Governor De Witt Clinton, in his annual message, speaking of the common schools, says : " In furtherance of this invaluable system, I recommend to your consideration the education of competent teachers." In the message of 1826, he says : " I therefore recommend a seminary for the education of teachers in the useful branches of knowledge."

In 1827, Senator John C. Spencer, of the Literature Committee of the Senate, reported a bill "to promote the education of teachers." It is worthy of note that Mr. Spencer's step-mother was a sister of Governor Clinton, whose private secretary he had also been. In his last message, written only a month before his death in 1828, Governor Clinton lamented that no law had been passed "to elevate the talents and qualifications of teachers." In 1830, a committee of the citizens of Rochester asked the legislature to establish a State seminary for the education of teachers. In 1833, Governor Marcy said in his message : " One of the most obvious improvements in relation to common schools would be a plan for supplying them with competent teachers." In 1835, John A. Dix, chairman of a committee of the Board of Regents, recommended the establishment of teachers' classes in academies. In 1839, Governor W. H. Seward recommended that " Normal School instruction be engrafted on our Public School system." In the same year, John C. Spencer, Secretary of State, was Superintendent of Schools. He secured the passage of a law creating a Board of Visitors of Schools. The chairman of the Board was Rev. Dr., afterwards Bishop Alonzo Potter, a member of the first Executive Committee of this school ; with him was associated Francis Dwight, afterwards his colleague in the Executive Committee.

Francis Dwight was born in Springfield, Mass., in 1808 ; graduated from Harvard University and its law school ; spent two years in Europe examining systems of education, etc. ; settled in Geneva, in this State, where, in 1840, he established the " District School Journal," which he soon removed to Albany, and conducted for five years. He was made Superintendent of Schools for the city and county of Albany.

The Board of Visitors recommended that a Normal school be established near the capital of the State. In 1841, the " District School Journal " was, at public expense, furnished to each school district in the State ; and thus, in every nook and corner of the State there was an advocate of a Normal school. In 1842, Samuel Young, known as Col. Young, succeeded John C. Spencer as Secretary of State, and so became Superintendent of Schools. He filled many public positions with honor to himself and usefulness to the State—none more so than that of Superintendent of Schools and member of the Executive Committee of the Normal School. In 1842, a convention of county superintendents was held in Utica, at which Rev. Dr. Alonzo Potter, and Horace Mann and George B. Emerson, of Mass., advocated a Normal school, to which project the superintendents gave their support. In 1843, another like convention was held, and again the county superintendents reported in favor of a Normal school.

In 1843, Calvin T. Hulburt, of St. Lawrence Co., was chairman of the Assembly Committee on Colleges, Academies and Common Schools. In pursuance of an elevated idea of responsibility thus resting upon him, he visited the Normal schools of Mass.; and March 22, 1848, he made an eloquent and elaborate report, accompanied by a bill to establish a Normal school for the period of five years. As a result of his efforts and those of his colleague, Michael Hoffman, of Herkimer Co., the bill was passed, May 7, 1844, as follows :

AN ACT FOR THE ESTABLISHMENT OF A NORMAL SCHOOL.

SECTION 1. The Treasurer shall pay, on the warrant of the Comptroller, to the order of the Superintendent of Common Schools, from that portion of the avails of the literature fund appropriated by Chapter 241 of the Laws of 1834, to the support of academical departments for the instruction of teachers of common schools, the sum of $9,600; which sum shall be expended under the direction of the Superintendent of Common Schools, and the Regents of the University, in the establishment and support of a Normal School for the instruction and practice of teachers of common school in the science of education and in the art of teaching, to be located in the county of Albany.

SEC. 2. The sum of $10,000 shall, after the present year, be annually paid by the Treasurer on the warrant of the Comptroller, to the Superintendent of Common Schools, from the revenue of the literature fund, for the maintenance and support of the school so established, for five years, and until otherwise directed by law.

SEC. 3. The said school shall be under the supervision, management and government of the Superintendent of Common Schools and the Regents of the University. The said Superintendent and Regents shall from time to time, make all needful rules and regulations, to fix the number and compensation of teachers and others to be employed therein, to prescribe the preliminary examination and the terms and conditions on which pupils shall be received and instructed therein, the number of pupils from the respective cities and counties, conforming as nearly as may be to the ratio of population, to fix the the location of the said school, and the terms and conditions on which the grounds and buildings therefor shall be rented, if the same shall not be provided by the corporation of the city of Albany, and to provide in all things for the good government and management of the said school. They shall appoint a board consisting of five persons, of whom the said Superintendent shall be one, who shall constitute an executive committee for the care, management and government of the said school under the rules and regulations prescribed as aforesaid, whose duty it shall be from time to time to make full and detailed reports to the said Superintendent and Regents, and among other things to recommend the rules and regulations which they deem necessary and proper for the said school.

SEC. 4. The Superintendent and Regents shall annually transmit to the legislature a full account of their proceedings and expenditures of money under this act, together with a detailed report by said executive committee, of the progress, condition and prospects of the school.

The Regents of the University at once named the executive committee, as follows : Col. Samuel Young, ch'n, and appointed Rev. Dr. Alonzo Potter ; Hon. Gideon Hawley, the secretary of their own board ; Francis Wright, and Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Campbell, then pastor of the Third Reformed church. With the first four we are acquainted ; the fifth was noted for eloquence and scholarship in a city whose clergy have always taken the highest rank in literature and oratory. Afterwards he became Principal of the Albany Academy, Professor in the theological school of his denomination at New Brunswick, N. J. ; then illustrious by his administration as President of Rutgers College. Of all the great men who formed the first executive committee he alone survives. The interests of the institution were placed in the hands of those whose labors had created it ; the school entered upon the experimental period.

June 1, 1844.—The executive committee met for the first time and organized with Supt. Young as chairman, and Francis Dwight as secretary. Gideon Hawley was appointed a committee to confer with the Common Council of Albany with reference to a proper building for the service of the school, the same to be supplied by the city.

July 16, 1844.—Francis Dwight was instructed to visit the Normal school in Lexington, Mass., and learn as to its organization, apparatus and condition.

Aug. 1, 1844.—The Mayor and Recorder of Albany appeared and proposed on behalf of the city that the latter lease the depot building on State street and Maiden lane, recently vacated by the Mohawk & Hudson Railroad Company ; that the city furnish five hundred dollars to help put it into proper condition for school purposes, and place it at the service of the school for a period of five years ; which was accepted. Mr. Dwight had returned from Lexington, and was empowered to purchase apparatus for the school. A sub-committee was appointed to take charge of the repair of the depot building.

Sept. 17, 1844.—The executive committee found numerous applications for the position of janitor ; laid them all on the table, “not thinking that a janitor is needed.” Col. Young had been directed to prepare and send out a circular of the school. It was resolved that the school should open Dec. 18, 1844, at 10½ A. M., and that the executive committee should be in attendance at that time. George R. Perkins, mathematician and author, of Utica, was appointed instructor in mathematics. Dr. Potter was directed to go to Newburyport, Mass., and confer with David Perkins Page (a cousin of George R. Perkins), author of a system of penmanship, and an eloquent lecturer upon education. He had been associate principal of the Newburyport High School for a period of twelve years. He had been recommended to the Executive Committee by Horace Mann and other friends of education in Mass. Dr. Potter went with full power to engage Mr. Page, which he did after an interview lasting but a half-hour.

Dec. 13, 1844.—Dr. Potter reported that he had engaged Mr. Page, and the engagement was ratified.

Dec. 16, 1844.—The Executive Committee met Messrs. Page and Perkins, and the former laid before them a well-digested statement as to the objects of the school, its division into classes, and the proper subjects of study. It is worthy of remark that, in the main, the school has been for forty years conducted on the plan that day laid down. It was agreed that tuition should be free, books should be furnished to the pupils without charge; that the male pupils should receive one dollar per week, and the female pupils one dollar and a quarter per week to help pay for their board.

Dec. 18, 1844.—The school was opened by Col. Young with an address, which the Executive Committee requested for publication; twenty-nine pupils were in attendance; before the term closed there were more than one hundred.

Dec. 23, 1844.—Ferdinand I. Ilsley was appointed teacher of vocal music, and J. B. Howard teacher of drawing. Mr. Ilsley is now (Aug. 1884), at the age of seventy-six, teaching music in Newark, N. J.

Jan. 9, 1845.—A janitor was appointed, his duties being carefully specified: to go errands for the principal; to keep the rooms in good order; to saw the wood, and to carry it to the several rooms. The arrangement as to janitor lasted but for a term, students being afterwards appointed and paid for doing the work. But little coal was burned in Albany at that time.

Jan. 20, 1845.—It was under consideration to teach the male pupils during the summer months and the females during the winter, so that all could teach half the time while taking the course; but, Jan. 21, 1845, it was resolved that co-education should continue, and that the terms should commence on the second Wednesday of April, and on the third Wednesday of October. The allowance for board was continued.

Feb. 10, 1845.—N. S. Benton, the new Secretary of State, took the place of Col. Young. It was resolved: That it is inexpedient to hire occasional lecturers—a resolution that is still in force, and that has been closely adhered to.

Feb. 20, 1845.—James S. Wadsworth having liberally contributed $300 for the purchase of books, it was resolved that the books on the "Library List" be purchased with the money. Mr. McKoon was appointed Professor of the Natural Sciences.

March 8, 1845.—Six students were appointed "Pupil Teachers" at a compensation of one dollar per week. They were: Silas T. Bowen, Sumner C. Webb, Elizabeth Hance, Daniel Losey, Caroline Smith, Reuben R. Stetson; the first three, afterwards, became members of the Faculty.

April 4, 1845.—It was resolved that the pupils, on registering, should sign the Declaration in regard to teaching, as it exists to this day.

May 2, 1845.—D. G. Eaton was appointed librarian — salary, one dollar per week; William Nims, "Pupil Teacher." Arrangements had been made to open the Experimental School. The Secretary proposed a list of books to be purchased with the Wadsworth money.

May 26, 1845.—The allowance for board was placed at one dollar per week.

June 9, 1845.—Prof. McKoon resigned on account of sickness in his family; and the Executive Committee expressed their regrets and sympathy.

June 14, 1845.—Outline maps were purchased. It was directed that a form of diploma be prepared. The same form has since been used. William F. Phelps was allowed $12 for two weeks' extra services in organizing Experimental School. Principal Page was sick.

July 15, 1845.—It was directed that a catalogue of the officers, Faculty and students be published in the District School Journal; that the diploma be printed on paper; that the board allowance be seventy-five cents per week; that the Principal employ five Pupil Teachers; that four students be employed as janitors at seventy-five cents per week in the winter, and fifty cents per week in summer.

Aug. 27, 1845.—William W. Clark was paid $60 for services continuous for twelve weeks. He was afterwards Professor of Natural Sciences. Isaiah Townsend and other liberal citizens were thanked for contributions to paint and ornament the front of edifice. It was directed that the lecture room be whitewashed and the iron pillars painted.

Oct. 15, 1845.—Rev. Dr. Potter resigned to become Bishop of Pennsylvania, and Col. Young was appointed in his place. Two hundred and fifty dollars were appropriated for chemical apparatus.

Dec. 10, 1845.—The number of pupils must not exceed two from each assembly district, or twice the number of members of assembly.

Dec. 16, 1845.—The death of Francis Dwight was mourned, and the committee certified to his eminent services and ardent devotion to the cause of education. He killed himself with overwork; his funeral was imposing; all agreed that his death was an irreparable loss.

Dec. 18, 1845.—Dr. William H. Campbell was appointed Secretary of the Executive Committee; Francis A. Thayer was paid for past services as librarian; Eben Curtice and D. B. Ross were appointed librarians.

Jan. 27, 1846.—Hon. Harmanus Bleecker was appointed a member of the Executive Committee in place of Francis Dwight, deceased.

Feb. 14, 1846.—It was resolved that females entering the school should be not less than sixteen years of age; males, not less than eighteen; mileage was established.

March 9, 1846.—William F. Phelps was appointed permanent teacher of the Experimental school. A Normal student having left before examination, his seat was declared vacant.

Sept. 3, 1846.—Thomas I. Collier, I. W. Collier and Addison C. Gibbs were appointed janitors; eight dollars were appropriated to fit up a room for them to occupy. The State Constitutional Convention were invited to attend the examinations and closing exercises.

Nov. 4, 1846.—Ann Maria Ostrom became teacher of drawing.

May 5, 1847.—Prof. Ilsley resigned, and the Executive Committee expressed great regret at parting with him. Truman H. Bowen was appointed Instructor in Music.

Jan. 1, 1848.—Christopher Morgan, Secretary of State, took the place of Mr. Benton. David P. Page died. The Executive Committee declared his death to be a public calamity, and invited Rev. Dr. Huntington to preach the funeral discourse before the Executive Committee, the Faculty and the students; the funeral expenses were ordered paid from the funds of the Institution. The services were held in the Clinton Square Presbyterian Church, and there was not a dry eye in the vast audience. Rarely has a man been so loved; rarely has a man been so mourned. The excellent crayon portrait which hangs in the great Assembly Room was presented by his son, W. W. Page, Esq., of Leominster, Mass., and his daughter, Mrs. J. J. Currier, of Newburyport, Mass.; both were so young at the time of their father's death that their memory of him is very indistinct; he died at the early age of thirty-seven; yet, how much he had done!

Jan. 12, 1848.—Thanks were returned to Rev. Dr. Huntington for the funeral discourse. George R. Perkins was appointed Principal.

Jan., 1848.—Governor Young, in his message, said: "The practical importance of the State Normal School is beginning to be felt." It was recognized that the "five years' experiment" had proved to be a success. George R. Perkins was very active in the labor of securing a site and a building for the school. There was still much opposition to the institution; not so open as it had been, yet it was strong. By the advice of Dr. James Hall, State Geologist, the vacant lot in the rear of the old State Hall, on the corner of State and Lodge streets, was suggested as a site. The property belonged to the State, and the expense of a lot would be saved. On the corner of Lodge and Howard streets stood a city fire engine house, but this lot was presented by the city. It remained, therefore, only to secure the money necessary for building.

April 12, 1848.—A law was passed appropriating $15,000 for a building to be erected upon the lot in the rear of the old State Hall.

June 14, 1848.—Principal Perkins and Mr. George I. Penchard, architect, were directed to draw up specifications in accordance with the plans submitted by Mr. Penchard. There were two of these plans; it was estimated that the more ornamental would cost $700 more in construction; it was the one selected.

Aug. 21, 1848.—The allowance to students for traveling expenses was made three cents per mile for distance traveled in coming to the school, if the students remained till the end of the term.

March 19, 1849.—The Executive Committee acknowledged the goodness of the Legislature in providing a theodolite; it shall not be loaned. The Legislature had appropriated $10,000 more for the erection of the new building, which was completed within the appropriation. It was badly located and poorly designed. It required continual appropriations and constant work to make it answer the ends of its creation.

July 31, 1849.—The school moved into the new building.

We have thus traced the progress of the institution since its inception; from the seed planted by De Witt Clinton, watered and watched and nourished by those who appreciated the importance of healthy growth, until it has assumed solid and symmetrical form. That which was an experiment has become a success. The school has a permanent home of its own; henceforth, no question will arise as to the necessary appropriation for its support.

March 23, 1850.—An act was passed by the legislature to provide for the support and education of a limited number of Indian youth, of the State of New York, at the State Normal school. Under its provisions, nine Indian pupils entered, the eleventh term. During the three years of the experiment, five females and twenty-one males attended ; but one, a female, graduated ; and the education of the Indian at this school was an admitted failure.

July 8, 1852.—Principal Geo. R. Perkins, LL.D., resigned. He took charge, as mathematician, of the calculations to be made in the process of consolidating the various lines of railroad between Albany and Buffalo, to form the N. Y. C. R. R. He had charge of building the Dudley Observatory. He became deputy State Engineer and Surveyor. He was, January 30, 1862, unanimously elected Regent of the University, the only member other than Washington Irving, so elected. He died in Utica, where his widow and daughter still reside.

Sept. 20, 1852.—Samuel B. Woolworth, LL.D., was elected Principal. He had been many years in charge of the Homer, N. Y., Academy, in which he had made a reputation known and acknowledged throughout the State. His warm, magnetic, personal influence with his pupils was such that it remains with them, thankfully recognized, through life. He was a potential factor in the school for twenty-eight years ; for when he resigned, Feb. 1, 1856, it was to become secretary of the Board of Regents, and so a member of the Executive Committee in charge of the school. He thus remained the most active man in its management until his lamented death in 1880. To his sagacity, his experience, his wise advice, the school owes much. He it was who saw in the young Principal of the Fredonia, N. Y., Academy those qualities of manhood, scholarship and general culture that made him an admirable model to set before young men preparing to be teachers ; he it was who secured this young man as Professor of the Natural Sciences in the Normal school ; and when Dr. Woolworth resigned, he recommended the appointment of Dr. Cochran.

Feb. 1, 1856.—David H. Cochran, A.M., Ph. D., was elected Principal. His work in Fredonia had been in character, if not in kind, Normal school work, and from that work there eventually and naturally grew the State Normal and Training School of Fredonia, N. Y. Dr. Cochran brought to his new position all the energy, all the graces, and all the influences that had made his preceding career a marked success, that made his administration here a marked success. In his conduct of this school he was aided by a Faculty mostly of his own selection—Plympton and Cooley, and Estee and Kimball, and Huntley and Misses Rice, and Ostrom and Butler, and Hewes and the great Davies. For thirteen years Misses Butler and Ostrom were to the students of their time what Miss Hance and the elder Ostrom were to the earlier graduates—models of all that was womanly. For eight years Dr. Cochran made the school a power for good. He was never satisfied, for his standard was high, and the course was short as to time, and necessarily limited in extent. He was invited to the presidency of the Polytechnic Institute; he resigned from the Normal school, Sept. 19, 1864, and with great reluctance and many words of praise, the Executive Committee accepted his resignation.

Dec. 2, 1864.—The Executive Committee, after much searching and many efforts, had found Oliver Arey, A.M., whom they now elected. Prof. Arey had made the Buffalo Central School celebrated, and, in creating it, had built up his own reputation. He remained in charge of the Normal School until January 31, 1867. In accepting his resignation, the Executive Committee expressed to him their appreciation of the fidelity with which he had discharged his duties, and the assurance of their best wishes for his future.

April 24, 1867.—Joseph Alden, D.D., LL.D., was elected President. He had spent a long life as an educator and writer on educational subjects. He had been a Professor in Williams College; had been President of La Fayette College. He gave abundantly to the school of the fruits of his long training, of his rich experience. He valued methods little; he elevated mental training, intellectual development; technicalities and forms he, in great measure, ignored. He was wise and sagacious in selecting men and women for the work they could do; they did it well; they could instruct; they could develop thought. He knew good work, and he appreciated those who did it. For fifteen years he directed the affairs of the school; his success, his pupils declare. Wise, earnest, faithful—when he resigned, and insisted that his resignation be accepted, the Executive Committee had not words to express their regret at their loss, and of praise for him who had done so much for the school. His resignation closed fifteen years of continuous service in the Institution as its head.

June 22, 1882.—Edward P. Waterbury, A.M., Ph. D., was elected President of the school. For the first time in its history, the head of the school was one of its own graduates. For the first time, all of the Executive Committee, except the State Superintendent, were men who had received their education, in part at least, from graduates of the school.

This record would possess no degree of completeness did it not contain further mention of the members of the Executive Committee in their management of the school. For twenty-seven years, Hon. Franklin Townsend gave constant, earnest and sagacious advice and direction to its affairs, until failing health demanded his retirement. Of all members of the committee, his term of service was the longest. Hon. Charles L. Austin, an acute and honest lawyer, served seventeen years, until his death, April 28, 1866. During all those years he was the trusted counsellor of the committee, not only as to technical legal matters, but in all affairs in which experience and logical knowledge are of value. Hon. Robert H. Pruyn, who spent many years of his life in the public service, at home and abroad, served twice on the committee—before he went as Minister to Japan, and again, on his return. His influence with other public men was great, and was always at the service of the school whose interests he forwarded with as great energy and zeal as if they were his own private affairs. His connection with the school closed with his death, Feb. 26, 1882.

Hon. John V. L. Pruyn, late Chancellor of the University, before his elevation to that position, served on the Executive Committee for eleven years; and after he became Chancellor, exercised an interested supervision of the affairs of the school. The State is greatly indebted to him for a life-long service to the cause of education.

Amos Dean, LL.D., and Charles E. Smith, A.M., were useful members, though their term of service was so short that their influence had not time to make itself so apparent as that of others. Mr. Dean's term closed with his death, January 26, 1868, and Mr. Smith's with his removal from the State in 1881.

Dr. Jacob S. Mosher, Ph. D., served on the committee from Jan. 14, 1869, until his death, August 13, 1883. These eloquent words of the Executive Committee feebly speak his praise: "Dr. Mosher was appointed a member of this committee in 1869 in place of Amos Dean, then recently deceased. He brought to the duties of the office that conscientious fidelity and that alert intelligence with which he strove to execute every public trust. His previous education and training, his natural tastes and interests, his habitual caution and discretion, and his aptitude for affairs, made him from the beginning a source of beneficial influence. He understood with instinctive accuracy the just relations between this institution and the government and people of the State, and no member of the committee contributed more effectively towards maintaining those relations in that condition of cordiality which has marked its history. In the recent movement for providing the school with proper accommodations, his whole heart was enlisted, and so much of his thought, energy and purpose has been wrought into its plans and mingled with its material, that the building, when erected, will in a large sense constitute a monument of his wise and faithful efforts."

The Executive Committee, at present, consists of the following gentlemen: Hon. William B. Ruggles, Superintendent of Schools, ex officio, Chairman; Hon. David Murray, Sec. of Board of Regents, ex officio, Secretary; Hon. St. Clair McKelway, a Regent of the University and editor of the Albany Argus; Hon. Andrew S. Draper, a lawyer; and Robert L. Fryer, Esq., an extensive lumber merchant.

THE NORMAL SCHOOL COMPANY IN THE WAR.

Capt. Professor Albert N. Husted has kindly prepared the following record of the services of the Normal School Company:

When, in July, 1862, the Union forces were defeated in the "seven days' battle" before Richmond, and there came up from the Capital of the nation a new call for men — soldiers to drive back the rebellious invaders — the young men of the State Normal School felt that it was time for them to shoulder their muskets and do what they could to save the land they loved, and preserve the institutions for which their fathers fought. Professors Kimball and Husted, of the Faculty, volunteered to go with and lead them. With the graduates and students of the school as a nucleus they commenced recruiting, and, on the 25th of September, their company of one hundred true, brave, earnest men were “mustered into the service of the United States for three years, or the war.” They were at once fully armed and equipped. The Faculty of the school presented each of the officers with a valuable revolver, while contributions from graduates and friends purchased a rubber blanket for each Normal member of the company.

After three weeks of drilling and guard duty, at the barracks west of Albany, the company was, on request of its officers, attached to the Forty-fourth New York Volunteers — a regiment in high standing, but much reduced in numbers by service in the field — forming a part of the Third Brigade, First Division, Fifth Corps; and was afterwards known as Company E of that regiment, joining it October 23d at Antietam Ford, Maryland, where the Army of the Potomac was resting after the battle of Antietam.

The company, as an organization, participated in the following engagements:

1. Fredericksburg, Dec. 11–14, 1862.
2. Chancellorsville, April 30 to May 6, 1863.
3. Gettysburg, July 2 and 3, 1863.
4. Wilderness, May 5, 6 and 7, 1864.
5. Spottsylvania, May 8 to May 21, 1864.
6. Cold Harbor, June 3, 1864.
7. Petersburg, June 18–21, 1864.
8. Weldon Railroad, Aug. 18–21, 1864.
9. Poplar Grove Church, Sept. 30, 1864; and in the following skirmishes or partial engagements:
10. Middleburgh, June 21, 1863.
11. Jones' Cross Roads, Md., July 11 and 12, 1863.
12. Wapping Heights, July 24, 1863.
13. Rappahannock Station, Nov. 7, 1863.
14. Mine Run, Nov. 29 and 30, and Dec. 1, 1863.
15. North Anna, May 23–26, 1864.
16. Tolopatomoy Creek, May 29 and 30, 1864.
17. Magnolia Swamp, June 1 and 2, 1864.

Capt. Rodney G. Kimball commanded the company at the battle of Fredericksburg, and until Feb. 4, 1863, when he left the regiment on “sick leave," and was honorably discharged on surgeon's certificate of disability, Apr. 16, 1863.

Lieut. Albert N. Husted participated in all the above-named engagements ; was slightly wounded at the battle of Chancellorsville by a fragment of shell ; was promoted to a captaincy, and was honorably discharged, because of expiration of term of service of regiment, Oct. 14, 1864.

The following members of the company were graduates or undergraduates of the New York State Normal School, and served with the company in the battles whose numbers are set opposite their respective names :

GRADUATES.

1st Sergt. Consider H. Willett, 1, 2, 3 ; commissioned as Capt. of U. S. Colored Troops, Sept. 28, 1863.

Sergt. James O. Blakely, 1, 2, 3 ; commissioned as 1st Lieut., 19th U. S. Colored Troops, Dec. 8, 1863.

Sergt. Samuel McBlain, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 15, 16, 17 ; also in battles of Hatch's Run, March 5, 1865 ; Skunk's Hollow, March 31, 1865 ; Five Forks, April 1, 1865 ; Appomattox Court House, April 9, 1865 ; promoted to 2d Lieut., 140th N. Y. Vols., Jan. 16, 1865, and to 1st Lieut., March 14, 1865.

Sergt. John H. Ostrom ; left at Albany barracks, Acting Quarter Master, Oct. 16, 1862 ; commissioned 1st Lieut. 176th N. Y. Vols., Dec. 30, 1862.

Corp. Thompson Barrick, 1, 2, 3, (bullet wound in neck) ; commissioned 1st Lieut. U. S. C. Troops, March 26, 1864.

Corp. Franklin Cogswell ; left sick at Albany barracks, Oct. 16, 1862 ; transferred to Invalid Corps, April 1, 1863.

Corp. Robt. B. Darling, 1, 2, 7 ; killed in action, at Petersburg, Va., June 19, 1864.

Corp. Andress B. Hull, 2, 3 ; commissioned as Capt. 20th U. S. C. Troops, Jan. 14, 1864 ; served in "Dept. of the Gulf" until Oct., 1865 ; mustered out with the regiment at New Orleans, Oct. 7, 1865.

Corp. Hiram F. Olmsted ; health failed ; discharged on surgeon's certificate of disability, Jan. 7, 1864.

Corp. Frank A. Wilder, 1, 2 ; discharged on surgeon's certificate of disability, April 25, 1864.

Private John L. Barrick ; died of fever, in hospital at Washington, D. C., Nov. 26, 1862.

Private Elbert Traver, 1, 2, 3 ; killed at Gettysburg, July 2, 1863.

Private Orrin G. Moore, 1, 2, 3 ; transferred to Signal Corps, Jan. 12, 1864.

UNDERGRADUATES.

Sergt. David F. Ferris, 1, 2, 3, 5 ; detailed for duty in 1st Division, 5th Corps Battalion, Sharp Shooters, Aug. 15, 1864 ; killed at battle of Skunk's Hollow, March 31, 1865.

Sergt. Horace F. Mills, 2, 3 ; commissioned Capt. 9th U. S. C. Troops, Dec. 8, 1863.

Sergt. Rodolphus G. Warner, 1, 2, 3 ; commissioned as 2d Lieut. in company, Jan. 28, 1863 ; honorably discharged, Aug. 22, 1863.

Private Sidney W. Burroughs, 1, 2, 4 ; killed in action at battle of Wilderness, May 5, 1864 ; commission as 2d Lieut. U. S. C. Troops, received at the regiment after his death.

Private George H. Dickson, 1, 2 ; served as Adjutant's clerk, and clerk at Brigade headquarters.

Private Frederick Eastman, 1, 2, 3 ; transferred to Signal Corps, Jan. 12, 1864.

Private George McBlain, 1 ; died in hospital at Washington, D. C., Feb. 11, 1863, of wound received at battle of Fredericksburg, Dec. 13, 1862.

Private Cyrus S. McDuffie, 1, 2 ; health failed, and he spent a large part of his time in hospital.

Private Albert Smith ; died of fever at camp, near Falmouth, Va., Dec. 7, 1862.

Private Charles E. Thorne, 4, 6, 13 ; severely wounded at Cold Harbor, June 3, 1864.

Private Gould J. Travis ; health poor ; was much in hospital.

Private George B. Wolcott, 1, 2, 3 ; killed at Gettysburg, July 2, 1863.

The term of enlistment of the 44th Regiment expired Aug. 8, 1864. At that time the effective force "present for duty" of the original one hundred men, numbered only ten. The remaining members of the company, both present and absent, were transferred to the 140th N. Y. Vols., in October following, served with that regiment in the closing campaign—some of them to the surrender of Lee at Appomatox—and were mustered out in June, 1865.

The following brief summary but imperfectly exhibits the company's usefulness in aiding to suppress the "Great Rebellion :—" Of the one hundred men, seventeen died of wounds received in battle ; eight died of disease contracted in the service ; twenty received wounds which did not prove fatal ; seven were commissioned as officers of U. S. Colored Troops, five of them as captains ; seven received commissions in New York volunteer regiments ; twelve were discharged because of physical disability ; nine were transferred to the Invalid Corps, and three to the Signal Corps.

The record of the Normal school, in the war, would be incomplete without the following additional facts : Besides those already mentioned, 79 others served, with rank from brigadier general to private. Four served in the Confederate army, one of whom was killed in battle. One of those who fought for the Lost Cause, now declares that he became a rebel as the logical result of the study of the Constitution of the United States in the class over which T. H. Bowen presided.

LITERARY SOCIETIES, ETC.

During the existence of the school there have been two literary societies ; sometimes, as at present, three — one formed of ladies, and two of gentlemen. In these the members debate selected questions, read original essays, declaim, criticise each other's performances, etc. Those who have been members have reaped great benefit ; membership is voluntary, and is encouraged by the Faculty. Near the close of each term two exhibitions are given — one by the ladies' society, the other by a union of the two societies of gentlemen. The programme of each is submitted to and approved by the President ; the music is under the direction of the professor of that branch of study.

Two prayer-meetings are held each week—one composed of ladies, the other of gentlemen.

Each member of the graduating class writes a graduating essay for the closing exercises, upon which occasion a number of these productions are read, usually by those whose class standing has been highest during the course.

THE NEW BUILDING.

The Executive Committee applied to the Legislature in 1883 for a small appropriation to make repairs upon the school building in Lodge street. The finance committee of the Senate having this application under consideration, deemed it wise to make an examination of the building, which two of their number personally inspected. They became convinced that it was entirely unfit for the purposes of the school. At their suggestion, a survey was made by experts, who confirmed them in their opinion that eventually, and not at a distant day, the building would become dangerous. They believed it a needless waste of money to make repairs on the old building ; and in consequence they reported the following bill, which promptly became a law, passing the Senate unanimously and receiving only sixteen adverse votes in the Assembly :

AN ACT making an appropriation for the erection of a Normal school building in the city of Albany, and for the purchase of a site for the same.

PASSED May 29, 1883; three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows :

SECTION 1. The sum of one hundred and twenty-five thousand dollars, or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated, for the erection of a new State Normal school building in the city of Albany, and for the purchase of a site for the same, which sum shall be paid by the treasurer, upon the warrants of the comptroller, to the order of the executive committee of said Normal school, who are hereby charged with the duty of such construction. The said executive committee are hereby authorized to negotiate for a suitable site for such building and upon the approval of the comptroller to purchase the same, and to proceed with the erection of such building. Such committee are also hereby authorized to sell the real estate now occupied by said school in such manner, and for such sum, and upon such terms as shall be approved by the board of commissioners of the land office, and to use the proceeds of such sale in the erection of the new building, and upon such sale aforesaid quit-claim letters-patent shall issue in the usual form to the purchaser. But no part of this appropriation shall be paid or expended, and no real estate shall be sold or purchased, or agreed to be sold or purchased, pursuant to the provisions of this act, until said executive committee shall make and file with the comptroller a certificate specifying the site proposed to be purchased, and the price thereof, and a copy of the plans for the proposed building, with a statement of the kind of material it is proposed to use in erecting the same, together with the estimates of such experts as shall be required by the comptroller, showing to the satisfaction of the comptroller that such site can be purchased and such building erected and completed for the sum herein appropriated and the sum which may be realized from the sale of the present school property.

§ 2. This act shall take effect immediately.

Senator Abraham Lansing, of Albany, and Senator Addison P. Jones, of Catskill, N. Y., were members of the finance committee, and greatly interested in the enactment of the law.

In pursuance of the provisions of the law, the committee purchased the site on Willett street, and employed Messrs. Ogden & Wright, architects, of Albany, N. Y. The plans were prepared by Mr. Frank P. Wright, of the above firm, and with the proposals of the contractors were submitted to and approved by the comptroller; having, first, at the request of Governor Cléveland, been examined and approved by Hon. Isaac G. Perry, Commissioner of the New Capitol. The material of the Old Capitol was purchased and reappears in the new Normal school building, thus remaining in the service of the State. The following is a list of the contractors: Mason, James A. Shattuck; carpenter, Edward McCann; painters, Lawrence & Stewart; roofing, Wasson & Martin; plumbing, Philip O'Brien; iron work, Sullivan & Ehlers. Before commencing work on the plans, Frank P. Wright, Esq., the architect, and President Waterbury, visited New York city, Brooklyn, Oswego and Boston, and inspected various school buildings which, in addition to those of Albany, might furnish valuable suggestions. Mr. Wright has kindly furnished the following description of the new building on Willett street:

The edifice has a frontage on Willett street of 128 feet and a depth of 160 feet. The court in the centre is 50 x 90 feet. The building is designed to accommodate 400 Normal students, 200 pupils in the model department, fifty children in the kindergarten, and twenty pupils in the object class. The north and south flanks are three stories high, with the centre part of the park front two stories high. This central part stands back six feet from the fronts of the two flanks. The flanks are 104 feet in depth, and, running transversely with them, across the easterly end, is a four story building, with a proportionately high roof. The interior court affords the most desirable advantages of light and air. The style is modern renaissance, with frieze band and sill courses of terra cotta, and moulded brick, liberally treated. The ground story is elevated from the grade about four feet.

This is faced up with Nyack stone, taken out of the Old Capitol, and laid in rock-faced random ashlar. The exterior walls above this, as well as the court yard, are faced with Glens Falls pressed brick, with high window and door dressings of brown stone. The lower ashlar is of Upper Aqueduct blue stone.

The arrangement of the plan is simple. Corridors extend around the central court with entrances in the front and both flanks, leading to the several departments, section and recitation rooms; the staircases to the upper stories are outside the line of the main building within the court, and made very easy with spacious landings. Under the east part of the building are the heating apparatus and fuel cellars. The ground floor contains the kindergarten, to accommodate fifty children, an object class of twenty pupils, a large recreation room, and twenty recitation rooms for the model department, the clothes rooms for the entire building, lavatories, janitors' apartment, large entrance hall, etc.

The principal floor embraces a large library, reception room, model assembly room to accommodate 200 pupils with single seats and desks, office for the superintendent of the model department, ten recitation rooms for the model school, and eight section rooms for the normal department. Each section room is intended to accommodate fifty normal students, and the recitation rooms of the model school from fifteen to twenty-five pupils. The second story contains the large assembly hall, with a seating capacity of 800; philosophical department, to accommodate 100 students, with table accommodations for manipulating the apparatus, that they may be prepared to instruct pupils in the same manner; also a room seating 200 for instruction in drawing and geography, and four section rooms, each accommodating forty pupils. The roof over the lower or central portion between the two flanks on the park front has a handsome parapet, and is concreted. It is constructed to allow of its use as a botanical garden, which will produce a beautiful and pleasing effect. The main entrance is in the center of the depressed portion, and over the door is a tablet, containing the coat of arms of the State. The chemical laboratory is located on the fourth floor of the southeast corner, and is to be fitted up with complete apparatus for 100 students to perform experiments, and learn, by actual doing, the work of a chemist.

The heating and ventilating of the building are to be accomplished on the system of direct and indirect radiation on a novel principle. It is calculated that the quantity of fresh heated air admitted to each room is sufficient to supply each pupil with eight cubic feet per minute. The same when vitiated will be withdrawn on the opposite side of the room at the floor by ventilating ducts, which, in turn, discharge into a large central ventilating shaft that is made effective by the use of the smoke-pipe from the heating apparatus. As an additional means of ventilation, use is made of all windows between the corridors and school rooms, and also the headlights of doors. All the rooms and corridors throughout the building are to be wainscoted ; and all rooms will have slate blackboards on all sides ; the windows are placed at such a height as to allow blackboards under them.

The floors throughout the building will be of narrow Georgia yellow pine. The interior finish of the structure is to be of oak ; the walls sand faced and furnished with picture rails and wood cornices. The rooms are to have the most modern type of school furniture. The great assembly hall is to be lighted by six large mullion windows, the one on the north end ($14\frac{1}{4}$ feet by $32\frac{1}{2}$ feet) being known as the Alumni Memorial Window. Much interest has been manifested in this by the graduates of the school, and it was unanimously resolved at the Reunion of '83—six hundred Alumni being present—to contribute for the purpose of making it a magnificent stained glass memorial of their connection with the institution. It is estimated to cost upwards of \$5,000.

The most careful attention has been paid to the drainage, all soil and waste pipes being ventilated so as to discharge all effluvia into the main shaft. The roofs are to be of Bangor slate, with terra cotta ridge rolls, cresting and terminals. All the water from the roofs is carried down on the inside of the building, from the gutters back of the parapet walls. The sides of the dormers will be covered with red tile. The school will be practically fire-proof, each floor being filled in with mineral wool. All partitions are to be of brick or hollow tile, all beams of iron, no wood partitions being used. The interior court will be flagged with blue stone. The view of the building as seen from the park will have a grouped effect. The architect has designed with great boldness, having thrown the lower parts of the building to the front, so that over the low central portion of the park front the entire building declares itself, every part showing the purpose for which it is intended. The treatment of the Alumni window is altogether admirable, the quiet spaces on either side contrasting finely with the broken facade of the other portions of the north front and clearly indicating the large assembly hall to which it belongs.

The general effect of the whole structure is dignified, noble, and worthily indicative of the grand purposes to which it is to be devoted.

The Building Committee consists of Hon. Wm. B. Ruggles, chairman ; Robert L. Fryer, Esq. ; and President E. P. Waterbury.

WHAT HAS THE SCHOOL DONE ?

It has trained men and women ; it has developed mind and character ; it has created an aptness to teach ; it has tended to make teaching a profession : it has had a real life of its own, independent of the personality of its instructors ; for, administration after administration of its affairs have succeeded each other, and the history of the graduates shows, all have been successful. It has received more than thirteen thousand pupils ; it has graduated about one in five, the same proportion as is the case at West Point and Annapolis. It has worked on better material than are the average young man and young woman; for its students have been possessed with the ambition to acquire an education and to be of service to the world; and it has sifted this material, and has graduated only the best. Its students, almost without exception, have been and are honest, earnest, moral, God-fearing men and women.

By its direct and indirect influence—for all the eight other Normal Schools in the State are, in a way, its children—it has changed the face of public school education in this State. It has furnished college presidents and professors; it has furnished principals for male and female academies; it has sent out numerous school commissioners and superintendents; through its graduates, it has formulated and carried to success the school systems of other States; it has done an amazing work in directing and serving in teachers' institutes; it has furnished authors on educational works whose books have been printed and used by millions; since it was established, the second Normal school in the United States, one hundred and thirty-five have been created, in which its graduates have done great service; its alumni who have retired from active teaching have, in numerous instances, served as school trustees and inspectors, and have thus been potent factors in the cause of education; it is believed to have furnished from its undergraduates who have taken but a partial course more than eight thousand teachers for the district schools of the State. The school sent a company of gallant men to the war, and gave all its influence and efforts for one country and one flag.

* Mr. Leonard Root was excused from teaching on paying tuition, which he insisted on doing.

During the first 38 years after the foundation of the school, 2586 graduated; reports have been received of 2,534 of these; 16 have not reported (their names and residences are given); the residence and history of 36 are unknown; it is hoped that some of the alumni may be able to give information regarding them, which will complete the record. The 2,534 have taught, in the aggregate, 18,409 years; giving an average of 7.27 years for each. It is known that all, or nearly all, of the 16 unreported, taught; but assuming that neither they nor the 36 unknown taught, the average for each of the 2,586 will be 7.11.

Of the 2,534 reported, there failed to teach----- 138
for reasons as follows:

Ladies married within a year of graduation-----	17
Died within a year of graduation-----	18
Kept at home by deaths, sickness, etc., in family-----	16
Health failed—became invalids-----	10
Enlisted in army as soon as graduated-----	5
Paid tuition and was excused by Ex. Com.-----	1—67
Reasons for failure to teach, unknown-----	71

In view of the foregoing, the Executive Committee of the school, in their last report to the State Superintendent of Schools, say:

“During the past year President Waterbury has made exhaustive inquiry into the history of the school and the services which its graduates have rendered to the cause of education.

“The committee take great pride and satisfaction in referring to these statistics as evidence of the great service that the school has rendered to the State. It has often been made a charge against the normal schools of the State that their students after all do not teach; that they are educated at the public expense as teachers, and then turn aside into other walks of life. The statistics of this Normal school do not support such a charge; on the contrary they give overwhelming testimony to the fact that the students and graduates of this Normal school have fulfilled their obligations to the State with notable and praiseworthy fidelity, and have returned in overflowing measure the benefits she has conferred upon them.”

The graduates of the forty years of the school number: gentlemen, 1,017; ladies, 1,738; total, 2,755; of these, 102 have become lawyers; 31, clergymen; 43, civil engineers and surveyors; 72, physicians; 97, State, county, city and town superintendents of schools, and school commissioners; 120, heads, or members of the faculties of this and of other Normal schools; 79, editors, and authors many of whom have written school books of which millions of copies have been used; 93 served as soldiers in the civil war; 399 have died; hence, the number of living graduates, Sept. 1, 1884, is 2,356.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Arithmetic, English Grammar, Geography, Map Drawing, Penmanship, Physiology, Algebra, Didactics.

JUNIOR CLASS—Second Term.

Algebra continued, Higher Arithmetic, Elocution, Rhetoric, English Grammar, Botany, Natural Philosophy, History of the United States, Didactics.

SENIOR CLASS—First Term.

Geometry, Natural Philosophy continued, Ethics, Astronomy, History, Science of Government, Higher Algebra, Criticism, Free Hand and Industrial Drawing, Didactics.

SENIOR CLASS—Second Term.

English Literature, Mental Philosophy, Trigonometry and Surveying, Chemistry, Geology, Book-keeping, Political Economy, Evidences of Christianity, Natural History, Comparative Anatomy, Practical Use of the Microscope, Didactics, Teaching in Model School.

Composition, Elocution and Vocal Music receive prominent attention throughout the course ; it is expected that every student who shall have attended one term will be qualified to teach simple vocal music to children.

The course of instruction and practice occupies two years. The year is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each. The time required to complete the course will depend on the attainments, habits and talents of the pupil. It ought never to exceed four terms, or two years. The students are divided into four classes ; these are subdivided into as many sections as circumstances may require.

Students are drilled in all the branches which they will be called to teach, and in such other studies as experience has shown to be best adapted to discipline and develop the mind. Persons cannot be made teachers by merely being told how to teach. They must themselves be taught in the right manner. They must themselves form the mental habits which it is their duty to aid others in forming. They must teach.

Every member of the Faculty of the Normal school is expected to be, by example and by precept, in every recitation, a teacher of Didactics ; every student is expected to recite as he should require a pupil to recite. Instruction in the art of teaching is thus given at every recitation in every department. Special attention is given to the study of the human mind as the object and instrument of education.

Besides receiving in this way instruction in the art of teaching, the students are, at the proper stage of their progress, required to teach in the Model School one or more hours a day for twenty weeks, under the supervision of the Superintendent. While teaching, they are required, day by day, to submit a scheme of the next day's lessons and the method they propose to adopt in presenting it to the pupils. This scheme is criticised by the Superintendent and modified as may be advisable. The best thought and ingenuity of the Normal students are called out and exercised in the actual work of teaching; and faulty methods are eliminated. They also, under direction, are expected to visit the parents of every pupil whom they teach, and to visit other Albany schools, and submit written reports of what they see and learn. Leaving the Normal school, the student will enter upon professional duties with a confidence born of experience and practice. The Superintendent frequently meets those practising in the Model School and encourages them to present original plans and schemes, which are criticised by their fellows, by the Superintendent and by the President. From 8½ to 9 A. M., the graduating class give individual assistance to the pupils of the Model School, and thus learn to inspire and interest them.

Particular attention is paid to the studies of the Junior First Term as these are the ones usually taught in district schools. Many attend during that term, and then leave and teach for a time, and thus procure the means for returning and completing the course.

APPOINTMENT AND ADMISSION.

Students desiring admission to the school should apply to their School Commissioner for an appointment. If the applicant possess the requisite qualifications, the commissioner will make the appointment and send a certificate of the same to the Superintendent of Public Instruction, who will indorse it and send it to the President, in whose hands it will be found on the arrival of the student at the school.

When the school was established, the number of students from each county was restricted to twice the number of its representatives in the Assembly; the establishment of seven additional Normal schools in the State has rendered this restriction unnecessary. The school is, therefore, open without restriction to all who desire to fit themselves to become teachers. It is desired that each applicant who has not been successfully vaccinated within seven years, shall be vaccinated before leaving home.

By an act of the Legislature, passed April 11, 1849, "EVERY TEACHER SHALL BE DEEMED A QUALIFIED TEACHER WHO SHALL HAVE IN POSSESSION A DIPLOMA FROM THE STATE NORMAL SCHOOL."

Students should reach Albany the day before the opening of the term. They should come at once to the Normal school building, where they will be directed to boarding houses approved by the Faculty. They should retain the checks for their baggage until they procure rooms, when it will be delivered free of charge.

Tuition and text books are furnished gratuitously. The amount of fare necessarily paid in coming by public conveyance to the school will be refunded to those who are present at the beginning of the term and remain till its close.

The price of board in respectable families varies from $3.50 to $4 per week, exclusive of washing. Those who wish to board themselves can procure furnished rooms at $1 per week. By so doing, they can reduce their expenses for board to $3 per week. All places for board, and any change of place, must be approved by the Faculty.

THE SPRING TERM begins on the second Wednesday in February.

THE FALL TERM begins on the second Wednesday in September.

EXAMINATIONS AND QUALIFICATIONS.

That those intending to apply may understand what will be required of them, the following information is given: Before examination, the student will register, and sign this declaration: We, the undersigned, hereby declare that our object in entering the Normal School, is to prepare ourselves for a faithful performance of the duties pertaining to the office of teacher; and we further declare that it is our intention to devote ourselves to the work of instruction in the schools of the State.

Arithmetic.—In arithmetic the applicant must be able: to recite all of the ordinary tables of denominate numbers; to both read and write with facility large numbers both entire and decimal; readily to perform the operations of addition, subtraction, multiplication, division and reduction of numbers both simple and denominate, entire and fractional; to solve examples in percentage with its applications to interest, discount, and profit and loss; to solve problems in ratio and proportion, and in square and cube root. Problems will be given sufficiently difficult to test the capacity for logical reasoning.

Geography.—Questions will be given relating to the shape of North America, its mountains, its river systems; the shape, the area, the boundaries and the number of the United States and territories, and the relative importance of the different States. Correct information will be required as to the Great Lakes, the mines and mineral productions of the United States; the production and exportation of wheat, cotton and petroleum; and as to the great railroad lines between the Atlantic and the Pacific States. The applicant must be acquainted with the size, location and commercial characteristics of the more important cities of the United States and of Europe.

Grammar.—The applicant must analyze, according to the system taught in any standard grammar, simple sentences, compound sentences, and complex sentences containing two or more clauses; explain the formation of the plural of nouns; decline personal and relative pronouns, and show how the different case forms are used in sentences; explain and illustrate the office of adjectives and of adverbs; write verbs in any required mood and tense ; and show a reasonable acquaintance with the use of capital and of italic letters, and with the subject of punctuation.

Spelling.—The applicant must exhibit a familiarity with the general rules of spelling, and be able to spell correctly seventy out of one hundred words in common, every day use.

Reading.—The applicant must be able to read in a clear and distinct manner, pronounce words correctly, and show a knowledge of emphasis, inflection, etc.

Miscellaneous.—Those applying for admission to the advanced classes will be required to pass an examination in the studies of the preceding classes, and particularly in the methods of teaching the subjects which have been studied by those classes.

Applicants who can present a Regents' Preliminary Certificate will be admitted without examination. Those who have a Regents' Intermediate Certificate will be admitted to the Senior First Class without examination.

Candidates for admission to the lowest class must, if ladies, be not less than sixteen years of age ; and, if gentlemen, not less than eighteen ; and, if applying for admission to an advanced class, must be of a proportionately greater age. In all cases DECIDED MATURITY OF MIND is indispensable. None will be admitted after the commencement of a term, except for weighty reasons.

TO THE SCHOOL COMMISSIONERS.

The following extracts from a circular issued to the School Commissioners, by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, clearly present the qualifications which are deemed essential :

"The School Commissioners are directed to give the most extended notice in their power of vacancies, and to interest themselves in finding proper pupils to be appointed.

"In making the selections, those who from past successful experience have proved their aptness to teach, or from traits of character clearly developed, give fair promise of future success, should be preferred. Talents not below mediocrity, unblemished morals and sound health, are regarded as indispensable. In your visitations of the schools, you will sometimes find teachers who, to insure their highest success and usefulness, need only the instruction which this school is designed to give ; or pupils who have given proof of good scholarship, which, by being properly directed, may be made of great value in the cause of education. Such teachers and scholars you will encourage to seek these appointments."

The School Commissioners to whom the State is under great obligations for the interest they have ever taken in the school, will understand why their attention is particularly invited to this circular when the fact is mentioned that out of one hundred and eighty-two applicants who recently presented themselves, thirty-six were rejected for want of requisite qualifications. The commissioners will forward the circulars sent them to those in their districts who have shown an aptitude for teaching, or superior ability as scholars. Among those who have passed the Regents' Preliminary or Intermediate Examination, or who may have been members of Teachers' Classes in the Academies, are many who if put in the way of receiving a Normal school training, would do honor to the commissioners who appoint them and to the State which educates them.

W. B. RUGGLES,

Supt. of Public Instruction, Chairman ex-officio.

DAVID MURRAY,

Sec'y of the Regents of the University.

ST. CLAIR McKELWAY,

ANDREW S. DRAPER,

ROBERT L. FRYER,

Executive Committee.

The President of the school will be very glad to be of service to School Boards, School Commissioners and Trustees, by recommending teachers to them.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATIONS.

In 1850, "The Association of Graduates of the New York State Normal School" was formed. It was created by William F. Phelps, '45, who was its corresponding secretary. Its meetings were held every two years, on which occasions essays, poems and addresses were features of the occasion. It flourished while its creator was in charge of it, and was a successful medium of communication between trustees of schools and the graduates of the Normal school. It was the influence that caused the issue of various complete catalogues of the school, notably those of 1864 and 1870, which contained, in addition to an alphabetical list, class lists of the alumni. This organization finally disappeared. The present Alumni Association was the work, in great measure, of Sherman Williams, '71.

RE-UNION, DECEMBER 27, 1883.

Prof. Sumner H. Babcock, the recording secretary, had obtained about 2,000 addresses, which had in the main been discovered in the course of compiling this Historical Catalogue. Six hundred were in attendance. The School Commissioners of the city kindly placed the chapel of the High School at the service of the Normal School for the literary exercises, which were held from 3 until nearly 6 P. M. The following is the programme of the occasion :

ORDER OF EXERCISES.

PRAYER, by Rev. Andrew Parsons, '50.

SONG of REUNION, by Mrs. Jane J. Jewell-Bonsteel, '66:

Melody: "Auld Lang Syne."

We come again to Normal halls;
We gather as before;
We clasp again each other's hands
As in the days of yore.
The friendship of the olden time
Survives the long gone years,
And bids us join again in song,
In laughter and in tears.

What thoughts, what memories, sad and sweet,
Throng from our past, to-day!
What dreams, like summer roses fleet,
Have perished by the way!
And some who went with courage bold
To battlefields of life,
Have laid their battered armor down,
Too weary for the strife.

O, Comrades, still with hearts aglow,
Beholding human need;
Keep faith! a great reward awaits
Your noble word and deed.
And praise to you who farther on,
Well crowned with laurel leaves,
With locks besprinkled o'er with gray,
Are resting on your sheaves.

ADDRESS OF WELCOME, by Hon. William B. Ruggles, Superintendent of Public Instruction, and Chairman of Ex. Com. of the State Normal School.

RESPONSE, by Wm. B. Davidson, '72, Pres't of the Alumni Association.

CONTRALTO SOLO, by Mrs. Harriet Hall Mills, '68.

HISTORICAL RETROSPECT, by Edward P. Waterbury, '49.

GREETING SONG, by Miss Mary A. McClelland, '68:

Melody: "America."

Now thanks to God above,
That through his watchful love,
We meet once more.
We come from valley wide,
From rugged mountain side,
From ocean's surging tide,
From rocky shore.

To grasp a schoolmate's hand,
Make strong old friendship's band,
We've gathered here;
To tell the deeds we've done,
The honors fairly won,
O'erlook the race we've run,
Each other cheer.

For His own guiding hand,
Through drear and desert land,
Through wilds untrod;

For stars in darkest night,
 For skill to wield aright
 The sword in fiercest fight,
 Thanks be to God.

If we have taught the eye
 To read in earth and sky
 Thy art divine—
 Have taught the heart to feel
 The love Thy laws reveal,
 Thy care for human weal—
 The work was Thine.

If error's bonds we've riven,
 The noble impulse given
 To do the right;
 Then hear us while we raise
 The voice in joyous lays—
 To thee ascribe all praise,
 Thou God of might!

Forgive us that we've strayed,
 Pardon the failures made,
 Our prayer receive.
 Ere yet the day is done,
 Ere sinks the western sun,
 Forgive, thou Holy One,
 Do thou forgive!

POEM, "The Angelus" (a suggestion from the painting by Millett), by Mrs. Sarah Keppel Vickery, '76; read by Miss Kate Stoneman, '66.

The day was long and weary,
 The workers are stooped and worn,
 With scarcely a thought of the toiling past,
 Or a wish for to-morrow's morn.

'T were better in the quiet grave;
 To-morrow will be to-day,
 Ever the driving iron must,
 The hunger that will not stay.

The autumn spreads before them
 Her fair illumined book,
 As well 't were winter's whitened page,
 They have not time to look.

The harvest must be gathered,
 The children must be fed;
 No thoughts for them of sunset sky,
 Only the thought of bread.

But hark! across the darkening field
 A bell's sweet tone is heard;
 Hushed is the breath of even,
 Hushed the last note of bird.

It is the holy Angelus,
 The evening call to prayer.
 Lift your tired forms, poor workers,
 And claim a Father's care.

Each heart breathes forth its longing,
 Christ bends a loving ear,
 For nearer are the poor to Him
 Who worked and hungered here.

Lift now your heads, the sunset
 Flings wide its golden gate;
 'T is but a short and shining road,
 Behind, the angels wait.

O, bright will be the crown for those
 Who bore the heaviest cross,
 And fairer sure must heaven be,
 When earth was only loss.

Lift high your heads, the sunset
 Flings wide its open door,
 Earth gives her treasure to her own,
 But heaven is for the poor.

ADDRESSES, by Sherman Williams, '71; John L. Johnson, '71.

Letter from Joseph Alden, D.D., LL.D., President of the State Normal School, 1867-82;
 read by Sumner H. Babcock, '77:

PISA, Italy, Nov. 30th, 1883.

My Dear Pupils:

You are often in my mind. There was never a member of the school in whose improvement and happiness I did not feel a deep interest. I regret that I did not do more for you. I rejoice in the prosperity of the school. May the Lord help you and permit us to meet at his right hand.

Affectionately yours,

JOSEPH ALDEN.

ADDRESS, "The Great Northwest," by Wm. F. Phelps, '45.

CLASS POEM, '53, by Dr. Wm. G. Brownson, '53.

Within these hallowed walls whose echoes bring
 To waiting ears some old, familiar strain,
 Touching the heart in Memory's hidden spring,
 Bidding us live in the sweet past again,—
 We come, the remnant of a worthy band;
 We come to clasp once more each friendly hand.

What tender memories crowd each throbbing breast!
 Unwritten volumes none but we may read;
 A golden silence, language unexpressed,
 Mute eloquence, seem suited to our need,
 When face to face as in a glass we see
 The touch of Time, the lines of history.

Still let me draw the veil, and summon here,
 From their accustomed paths of toil and care,
 Those who can give to Memory but a tear,
 With those who come her treasured joys to share;
 Except its dawn and blending with the last,
 Forget a while the generation past—

Linger awhile on these familiar scenes,
 When from the kitchen and the plow we came,
 Plainly attired to suit the scanty means
 A frugal husbandry alone might claim;
 Not what we were, but what we aimed to be,
 Gave to our modest pride its dignity.

Transplanted from a pristine soil, we here
 Began the growth a promised fruitage bears;
 Still in the spring-time of life's joyous year,

Nor burdened with nor free from worldly cares,—
Gazing with wistful eyes through toil and strife,
Into the palmy summer days of life.

What nobler aims can youthful fancy boast,
Than honest striving for an honored name?
Counting no earthly sacrifice or cost
Too great that purchases a worthy fame,
If love to God and to our fellows be
The guiding star to such a destiny.

Our palmy summer days have come and gone;
Their warm delights and golden privilege,
With all their heat and burden we have known,
Our life-book holds on many a sacred page;
Some traced with honors loving hands have penned,
Some stained with tears in memory of a friend.

Ah! well do I recall one gracious form,*
Whose desk and heart I shared through normal days,—
At mention of whose name my pulses warm,
Whose modest worth I can but feebly praise;
No time nor distance breaks the magic spell
That bound our hearts so closely and so well.

His magic voice, the lustre of his eye,
His wealth of anecdote and repartee,
His ringing laugh so full of melody,
His genial nature, kindly sympathy,—
In the dim distance to my fancy seem
Like recollections of a happy dream.

Gifted beyond his years, his noble mind
Gave brilliant promise of a proud career;
In manhood dignified, in tastes refined,
With loving heart and purposes sincere,—
None could but love him through those days of strife,
That knew the charming sweetness of his life.

He was my friend—my trusted, bosom friend;
Rejoiced with me and grieved when I was grieved;
His heart was open as his hand to lend
A needed solace to a friend bereaved;
Like loving maidens, we were wont for years
Oft to embrace with kisses and with tears.

His sun went down at noon—the time of all
When fell Bereavement wields his keenest blade,
You, who have felt its edge, may well recall
The mortal hurt, the unhealing wound it made;
Vain are our questionings that seek to scan
The mysteries of a wise Creator's plan.

The world is full of joy—and full of grief;
Half night, half day, fierce storm and blessed calm;
The weary watching and the glad relief,
Labor and rest, wounds and their healing balm;
God from our search conceals His righteous will,
And through the tempest whispers, "Peace, be still!"

* Carlton Edward Barstow, of Oswego, delivered the Class Valedictory in 1853, taught with marked success for several years, received the honorary degree of Master of Arts in 1865, was admitted to the bar and engaged in the practice of law in Adrian, Michigan, where he died of typhoid fever in 1866.

And now with hearts refreshed, with love renewed,
 For every child our alma mater owns,
 With fervent thanks and lasting gratitude
 For this reception from her noble sons,—
 We turn to face again the toil and strife
 That mark the evening of each busy life.

Be it our highest aim, our constant care,
 To wisely watch and mark the sun's decline;
 Fulfil each trust, each burden nobly bear,
 Securely trusting in a Power divine;
 Then shall no vacant seat our absence prove
 From that re-union in the world above.

ADDRESSES, . . . by Wm. F. Phelps, '45; Wm. M. Giffin, '73; Abram P. Smith, '53.

POEM, "The Fountain of Youth," by Amelia E. Daly Alden, '68; read by Miss Ellen Bishop, '75.

Ponce de Leon, weary, rich and old,
 Heard joyfully the tale the Indians told
 Of that strange fountain in the forest dim,
 Whose limpid wave could give new life to him;
 And with his followers, for many a day
 He sailed from isle to isle, from bay to bay,
 In hope to find those waters, and restore
 His painful age to painless youth once more.
 But whether in the depth of virgin wood,
 Where the grim pine and solemn cypress stood,
 Or whether in the fair and sunny reach
 Of green savanna, or on sandy beach,
 He knelt to drink from many a sunless pool,
 Or quaff the bickering streamlet sweet and cool.
 His quest was vain; the mystic fountain lies
 All undiscovered yet by mortal eyes.

Ponce de Leon sleeps, and centuries
 Have drifted by upon the sunny seas
 Since, full of hope, he sailed from shore to shore,
 Then with a drooping heart the search gave o'er.
 We read the tale half pitying, and yet
 Is there not some faint, lingering regret
 That in the sunlight of this wiser age,
We may not go on such a pilgrimage?
 Fain would we seek—yea, let us own the truth—
 Fain would we seek and find the fount of youth!

For silently and swiftly as the spheres
 In the great vault above us, glide our years;
 And when, as now, we all together stand,
 Once more to take each other by the hand,
 We see with pain the sure and subtle trace
 Which time has left on many a well-loved face.
 We read the record of the fleeting years,
 The hieroglyphs of care and toil and tears,
 Of secret struggles and heart-wasting pain:
 "Oh, could we have our careless youth again!"
 We sigh, remembering the golden past,
 When life was beautiful, and grand, and vast.

Not all a fable was the story told
 Beside the Redman's fire in days of old;
 From the innate, insatiate hungering

Of human souls do all such legends spring.
They are the voice of nature crying through
The wilderness of time; in spirit they are true.

The life-renewing fountain surely flows,
Though from no earthly source its waters rise,
And he may drink, and keep his youth, who knows
To read the sorrow in another's eyes,
To cheer the lonely, and to change the sighs
Of troubled hearts to breathings of repose;
The starving soul with love and hope to feed,
And give a hand in every brother's need.
For him there springs, of life itself a part,
The fount of youth—a sympathizing heart.

PARTING HYMN, by Miss Mary C. Bennett, '55.

Melody: "Nearer My God to Thee."

Sadly the parting hour
Soon will draw nigh.
Joys, like the fragrant flower,
Live but to die.
If all our greetings be
Joyous, and pure, and free,
Blest will the parting be,
E'en though we sigh.

May we in wisdom's ways
Ever be found;
In noble deeds our days
Richly abound.
If, when our lives are past,
In Heav'n our homes be cast,
"Well done," be heard at last,
How blest the sound!

Father of truth and might
Guide us in love,
Safe to the realms of light,
Thy home above.
Then we'll again unite
In songs of pure delight,
In Heav'n, where all is bright,
Rest in Thy love.

Doxology.

A business meeting was then held, at which President Waterbury spoke of the Alumni Memorial Window, and a resolution was unanimously passed that the window shall be constructed by the alumni. The following officers were elected for 1884:

BUSINESS MEETING.

After the literary exercises, the business meeting of the alumni was held. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Judge A. P. Smith, '53, President; W. D. Johnson, '81, 1st Vice-President; John C. Bishop, '50, 2d Vice-President; Charles C. Pierce, '79, 3d Vice-President; Mrs. Orlene O. Sutton Milliken, '50, 4th Vice-President; Sumner H. Babcock, '77, Secretary; William V. Jones, '68, Treasurer; Executive Committee, Levi Cass, '49, E. A. Burt, '81, Kate Stoneman, '66, Mary A. McClelland, '68.

Hon. Wm. B. Ruggles offered a resolution of thanks to President Waterbury for the very complete historical account of the school which he had prepared at the expense of much time and great labor, and which will remain one of the most valuable papers relating to the school. The following resolution was unanimously passed: That a committee of three be appointed by the chair to select a committee of one from each class to aid in securing funds for the Alumni Memorial Window which it is hereby resolved shall be presented by the alumni. The committee appointed consists of Edward P. Waterbury, '49, Charles R. Abbot, '48, and William M. Giffin, '73. The following have been appointed as members of the Class Committee:

- 1845. William F. Phelps, A. M., Supt. Schools, Winona, Minn.
- 1846. Darwin G. Eaton, A. M., M. D., LL.D., Brooklyn, N. Y.
- 1846. Mrs. Mary E. Butler Hinckley, Geneva, N. Y.

Edward P. Waterbury, '49, Charles R. Abbot, '48, and William M. Giffin, '73, committee on the Alumni Memorial Window, have sent the following circular to the Alumni :

THE ALUMNI MEMORIAL WINDOW.

DEAR ALUMNUS—The new building for the State Normal School, of which the accompanying picture is a representation, is in process of erection. Located on Willett street, and fronting on the new and lovely Washington Park, its situation is superb as its design is beautiful. The building, complete and furnished, will cost about $175,000. The large Assembly Room, the position of which is indicated by the Great Window in the picture, is ninety feet long, fifty-eight feet wide, and forty feet high. The window will be fourteen and a quarter feet wide, and thirty-two and a half feet high, and will be the largest single window in this country. This description is from Ezra Prentice Treadwell, of Boston, Mass., who designs and executes it.

The window is designed to represent the influence of education.

The central motive, as presented in the five principal panels, is the development of mankind and of the arts and sciences as the result of education.

The five divisions represent "the teacher and the scholar" (in the central panel; the teacher having the idealized face of D. P. Page), surrounded by "the painter and the sculptor," "the poet and the musician," "the orator and the scientist," "the narrator and the historian." The figures are life size; dignity and character are given by the classic treatment of the figures, and by the suggestion of the Academy as a back-ground, while the tree of knowledge, the olive, overshadows the group, and white doves, emblems of peace, float above them. Filling the arch over this group are the "marks," hieroglyphs, of the early printers, as Aldus, Caxton, Guttenburg, etc., thus symbolizing books, the great means for the advance of education.

As a contrast, and recalling the Dark Ages, are the five groups forming the lower section of the window, representing Folly, Ignorance and Vice, surrounded by the fanatic and the warrior with their victim, the iconoclast, the ignorant and bigoted who martyr the saints.

The window is to be executed in Mosaic of American colored glass, all the shadings of color in figures, faces and draperies being carefully painted on and burned into the glass, while the outline drawing will be entirely in lead.

At the last Alumni Re-union, Dec. 27, 1883, at which there was an attendance of six hundred graduates, it was unanimously resolved that this window shall be known as the Alumni Memorial Window, to be presented by the graduates of forty years of the school, and thus be the gift of the living and of the dead. It is estimated that the sum of two dollars to ten dollars from each wishing to give for this purpose, will prove sufficient. It is desired that none give more than the latter sum. The undersigned were appointed a committee to present the subject to the Alumni. That the window may be ready in time, prompt response should be made. Letters containing contributions by check, postal note or order, or registered letter, may be addressed to E. P. Waterbury, Prest. S. N. S., Albany, N. Y., who will acknowledge receipt of the same.

WILLIAM M. GIFFIN, '73,

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 15, 1884.

It is expected that the Great Assembly Room will contain also life-size portraits of those who have been members of the Executive Committee, and of the former members of the Faculty. Many have been promised. Then the creators and benefactors of the school will be more than a mere name to the successive generations of students who will be educated within these walls.

THE SOCIAL RE-UNION.

In the evening, all the rooms in the Normal building were lighted and thrown open and filled with visiting alumni. Each wore the year of graduation on the breast. The registering was on year cards hanging around the reception room. In the chapel were short speeches, music and recitations, some delightfully given by Mrs. Emily A. Taylor Lyon, '67. Where all seemed happy, delighted, she, accompanied by her devoted husband, entered most fully into the enjoyment of the merry time ; surrounded by her classmates and her old pupils her eyes shone. Alas, how short was the time when, through the gates of agonizing pain, which she bore like an angel, she entered Paradise !

The vast collection of letters and photographs, from and of alumni, which had grown in the process of compiling this catalogue, had been by the Faculty sorted into bags and labelled by years. This great mail was given out, and the building was filled with groups of the different years, reading the news from classmates unseen and unheard of for many years. Some remained three and four days after Re-union to have time to read the letters. In the library of the new building will be fifty drawers, each for a year of the school ; these will contain all matters of interest to the alumni of the year which will be painted upon it. It is hoped that no alumnus will hereafter pass through Albany without stopping to examine the drawer belonging to the class.

Refreshments were served in Number Five, under the care and direction of Professors Husted and Jones. The assembly gathered in the chapel and sang again, closing with Old Hundred ; farewells were said by old-new friends, and the Re-union, except in memory, was over.
